"Oh, Say! Can't You See?" Eighth Annual Troubadour Show Opens Tomorrow Night at Tech High

Molyneux, Stevens, Danzansky, Edmonds, Wells Star In Dan Beattie's Opus

67 CHORINES FEATURED

First Time Show Has Played Four Nights at McKinley Auditorium

"Oh, Say! Can't You See?" the sparkling Troubadour musical comedy, opens tomorrow night! This, the eighth annual production to be given by the Troubadours, will be presented at McKinley Auditorium for four nights, December 14, 15, 16, and 17.

The show promises distinct novelties in plot, collegiate terschgreen ability second to none, and syncopated music designed to catch the ear, which, combined in one production, will probably create a pleasant furore in Washington amateur theatrical circles. Denis E. Connell, coach, commends the script as a play of professional caliber which is entirely different from anything which the Troubadours have yet attempted.

Plot Involves "Chorine" The plot revolves about a harassed show girl's efforts to put up a bold front before her visiting home folks, after she has led them to believe that she is the star of the show. She is aided in her deception by a wealthy man-about-town, and the entire show troupe. Ruth Molyneux, as Rebecca Adams, and Leonard Stevens, as Bob, the wealthy pseudo-chauffeur, take the leading roles.

Comedy interest is chiefly supplied by Joe Danzansky as the comedian in "Cole's Vanities" and Andray Edmonds as a wise-cracking, gold-digging chorine.

This all-star cast is ably supported by Bill Clardy and Midge Montgomery as Rebecca's parents, George Wells, a meek love-sick reporter, Milton Goodman, the producer of "Cole's Vanities," and Jane Rhodes, the temperamental star of his show. Edith Brookhart has replaced Allison McDaniel in the part of Bob's attendant.

"Merry-Go-Round" Author Has Article In Hatchet Review

Robert Allen Assails Republicans in Story for Next Review Issue

Characterizing the recent Republican disaster as "the greatest boon that has ever happened to that much-bismirched institution," Robert S. Allen, co-author of "Washington Merry-Go-Round" and "More Merry-Go-Round," assails migrating Republicans in a comprehensive analysis of a three-cornered struggle for Republican supremacy in 1934 and '36, in an article for the next issue of The Hatchet Literary Review.

"At one fell swoop," writes Allen, "it was cleansed of the greatest aggregation of political morons, racketeers, iron-pawed Bourbons, sordid incompetents, and professional hypocrites ever assembled under a single political banner in the history of the country."

The author sees the springing up of a third faction to complicate the stultified and progressive fight for Republican leadership. He refers to this struggling group of politicians as the "Young Turks," and names Senator Charles McNary, assistant Republican floor leader, as one of its supporters.

Ogden L. Mills is described by Allen as a "thick lipped and tough skinned Tory, born to great wealth and high social position, and a zealous devotee of the 'seepage theory.'"

The article proceeds to define this theory as "the system by which a few own all the wealth and permit some of it now and then to seep down to the rest of the folks."

Allen concludes that the progressives do not present a very inspiring sight, and sees in Senator Hiram Johnson of California their greatest hope as a man of great courage.

Tea Given at Lambie House For Visiting Irish Debaters

The visiting Irish debate team will be entertained at a tea in Lambie House on Friday afternoon, December 16, from 3:30 to 5.

Mrs. William C. Van Vleet will preside at the tea table. Members of Delta Sigma Rho, Sigma Delta Phi, the two debating teams, and the faculty, have been invited.

Marjorie Nelson's Oration on Lobbying Wins Frosh Contest

Alicia Mooney Second—Mere Handful Hear Interesting Program

Declaring that "What this country needs even more than the Democrat's beer is a stringent anti-lobbying law," Marjorie Nelson won the second annual freshman oratorical contest Friday night while a scant score of interested parents listened. Alicia Mooney won second place, speaking on the "American Dreyfus Case."

Four men and four women took part in the contest which took place in Room 33 of Corcoran Hall under the sponsorship of Delta Sigma Rho, national honorary speech arts sorority. The first place winner will receive a loving cup and the second prize is a book on forensic art. The awards will be made with other University scholarships and prizes at the June convocation.

Miss Nelson's oration was declared by Mrs. Henry Gratton Doyle, chairman of the contest, as being a splendid piece of work especially in view of the fact that as a freshman she had as yet received practically no training in the public speaking department. Alicia Mooney's analysis of what she declared to be a great blot on the justice system of California was also splendidly written and delivered.

The other speakers were: Thomas B. Atkins, "War is Hell"; Jane Ficklin, "The Plight of America's Farmer"; Gordon Horsnell, "Unfortunate Hawaii"; Edward C. Kemper, "Philippine Independence"; Ernest Milton Knight, "College Spirit"; and William Oponick, "The Horrors of War."

Ten Women Chosen For Phi Pi Epsilon

Ten junior and senior women majoring in courses dealing with foreign relations, were pledged to Phi Pi Epsilon, foreign service fraternity for women, at the meeting of that organization last Tuesday night. Marion Boyle, Mary Cook, Virginia Lee Dillman, Florence Hedges, Helen Jones, Francesa Martin, Naomi Myers, Platonina Pappas, Josephine de Roman, and Katherine Sandberg were those pledged.

Tonight the sorority will have as its guest speaker Senora de Baron, wife of the counselor of the Cuban embassy, who will talk on the status of women in Cuba, and Miss Ruth Hastings, of the League of Women Voters, who will lead a discussion on the place of women in international law.

"March of Events" to Portray News Via Pictures in 1933 Cherry Tree

New Section Will Picture in Snapshots and Professional Photographs a Panorama of Leading Events of the School Year With Descriptions

The 1933 Cherry Tree again comes to the front with the announcement this week of a "March of Events" section, following closely the report of a contest to judge the three most beautiful co-eds and a like number of the most handsome men by a prominent actor and actress.

This "March of Events" section, something entirely original, will portray in pictures, with an accompanying description, a panorama of the leading events of the school year. Such a section will have been made possible only by the complete coverage of all University events by the Cherry Tree photographic staff. To insure no omission of any event of University interest, students having pictures that might be used in this section are urged to communicate with the Cherry Tree staff immediately.

With the picture deadline fast approaching, students are again reminded that after January 1, all sittings made for the Cherry Tree will be $25 instead of the $20.00 rate in force until that time. For the convenience of those unable to have their pictures made during the day, the Casson Studio, official photographers, has set aside every Tuesday and Saturday evening from 8 until 10 p. m. for Cherry Tree pictures only. Organizations desiring exclusive appointments may have such arranged by assuring the photographer of a number necessary to justify such arrangements.

Women's Glee Club Offers Yuletide Songs

Christmas Carols by the Women's Glee Club will feature Chapel services for Friday of this week. Dr. Robert Howe Harmon, director of the organization, has selected a program which is especially suited to the festive spirit of the holiday season.

Last week Dr. Dudley Wilson Willard discussed certain phases of religion as it should "function" from the sociological point of view. President Marvin will be the speaker at the first meeting after the Christmas holidays, but has not as yet disclosed the subject of his talk. Meetings are presided over by Robert Allen Wilbur.

Alumni to Present Basketball Trophy

Washington High School Winning Championship Three Times, Will Retain Prize

For the first time, George Washington alumni will this year supply to the Washington high school athletic authorities a trophy to be awarded to the team which wins the scholastic basketball series commencing this month, according to plans recently announced by Max Farrington, assistant athletic director. The trophy will be awarded annually to the championship high school team and will become the permanent possession of the school whose team wins the championship three times.

An appropriation for the purchase of the trophy has been made by the executive committee of the General Alumni Association. James Kirkland heads the alumni committee which will select the trophy, to be known as the "George Washington University Alumni Basketball Trophy." It is understood that the officials in charge of athletics at the Washington high schools have indicated their willingness to have the trophy awarded at the conclusion of their year's basketball series.

29 Petitions Seen Eligible for Class Election Fight

Thirteen Juniors Seek Offices; Only Four to Be Filled—Voting Dec. 21

2 SENIORS UNOPPOSED

Columbian College, Law School Contests Seen as Bitter Fights

Climaxing ten days of petition signing, the Student Council committee on class organizations has announced that 29 candidates have satisfactorily met the requirements for election to the 11 offices to be filled. There are 16 candidates in the field for the seven positions on the Senior Class Council; 13 juniors have been declared eligible for the four offices in that class.

Of the senior classes of the University most interest was shown in Columbian College, where four candidates have qualified for election as delegate to represent that school on the Senior Class Council. Spirited campaigns are also anticipated in the Law School, where there are three candidates, and in the Fine Arts School, where two candidates have entered the contest.

Juniors will have an excellent opportunity to exercise their elective powers as there are three candidates for each of the offices of president, vice-president and secretary, and four candidates for the office of treasurer.

There will be a meeting of all candidates for Senior Class Council and Junior Class Offices in Corcoran Hall 10 at 7:10 p. m., Tuesday, December 13.

Tuesday night, December 20, will be "campaign night" for both seniors and juniors. Members of both classes will meet in Corcoran Hall 10 at 7:45, at which time candidates and their managers will be permitted to present their platforms and views on current issues. Loren Murray, who will preside at the meeting, is planning to have the Band present and a colorful meeting is assured.

Balloting will take place on Wednesday, December 21. A polling place, under supervision of members of the Student Council, will be established in each school. Seniors and juniors will vote at the same place. Polls will be kept open late enough to accommodate students in the evening schools.

Results of the elections will be made at an Election Returns Dance to be held in Corcoran Hall the night following the elections.

U. of Florida Here Thanksgiving, Probable; Temple, W. & J. Also Likely Visitors, Says Max Farrington

FINEST SCHEDULE EVER OFFERED

Buff and Blue Gridiron Warriors Will Meet Both Co-holders of Southern Conference Title in Tennessee and Auburn

Tennessee, Auburn, Clemson and Tulsa have been definitely scheduled and it is probable that the University of Florida and Temple University will also be added to the most attractive schedule ever offered by a District of Columbia eleven. It was announced last night by Max Farrington, assistant director of athletics, in a telephone conversation with the Hatchet sports department.

He also intimated that the University of Oklahoma and Washington and Lee, under contract with the Colonials to be played next year, will not be met until 1934.

Beginning with the Clemson encounter on October 14, the Colonials will meet on successive Saturdays: Auburn, this year's co-holder of the Southern Conference title, on October 21; Tulsa on October 28, Tennessee on November 4, and in all probability, Temple on November 11.

It is also probable that the University of Florida will be met here on Thanksgiving Day. Although both the University of Oklahoma and Washington and Lee University are under contract to play again this year it is understood that they will be met again in 1934 instead of this year. There is also a very good chance meeting Washington and Jefferson.

Tennessee, the co-holder of the Southern Conference championship, of the outstanding teams in the try, has one of the records of modern football, 67 games played during the last six years, the Vols have won 60, lost 2, and tied 5. In the past two years they have been victorious in every game they have played with the exception of two games, one in 1931 against Kentucky, and the other this year against Vanderbilt.

Auburn, a team little heard of before this year, developed an eleven that was one of the highlights of the season, and until its 20 to 20 tie with South Carolina in its last game of the season, was slated for the Southern Conference crown only to have to share it with the Volunteers of Tennessee, who had an otherwise perfect season clouded with a tie game.

The Clemson game listed for October 14 may be shifted to take care of any difficulties that might arise in completing the schedule.

Although no definite arrangements have been completed, it is felt Temple's fighting Owls, under the lance of Pop Warner, late of Stanford, will be met on November 11. Both teams now have this date open and it is expected that definite relations will be established in the next few days.

Capitalism Subject Of Friday's Debate With Irish College

Debaters From Dublin Will Meet Mintz and Murphy; G. W. Takes Negative

Resolved: "That capitalism has broken down," is the subject of the Trinity College-George Washington University debate, which takes place this Friday in Corcoran 10.

George Washington will argue the negative side of the question with Seymour Mintz and Arthur Murphy debating. James J. Auchmuty and Garret E. Gill of the Trinity College, Dublin, Debating Society, are the guest speakers. No decision will be made.

Both of the Irish speakers achieved high distinction during their careers at Dublin, and hold important offices and degrees.

Seymour Mintz has served in University debate for two years and was third in the recent Davis Prize Speaking Contest.

Arthur Murphy is a member of Delta Sigma Rho and served at American U. for three years in debate. He is a freshman in the Law School.

Last year George Washington debated with the Scotch team, and the previous year, the English team, in contests sponsored by the public speaking department. This year's contest is under the supervision of Professor Henry G. Roberts. Students and public are invited.

Physical Education Test

The Physical Efficiency Test for all men registered in required physical education course will be given on December 15, 16, and 17, from 10 a. m. to 12 m. Physical education credit will not be given to any student who does not take the examination.

Senior! Do Not Miss the Opportunity of Voting for the President of Your Class

Senior and junior class elections will be held Wednesday, December 21, in the various schools of the University. In the case of the juniors it is an open fight and it is up to the candidates to wage whatever battle they may deem necessary and make the best man win.

With the seniors the situation is slightly different. Senior class president is perhaps the most honored office within the power of the student body to bestow and it must be given. Candidates for senior council will not be able to do much in the way of stimulating interest in the election because the positions are and of right should be strictly honorary. Therefore, it is up to members of the graduating classes to carefully inspect the list of candidates and select the one whom they think is best fitted to represent their particular school AND THEN GET OUT AND VOTE!

If You Don't See the Troubadour Show You Will Be Sorry—It Runs Four Nights

George Washington University's own musical will be presented at McKinley Auditorium nights, beginning tomorrow evening, when badours perform in "Oh, Say! Can't You

To urge student attendance is hardly necessary. The Troubadours deserve one hundred per cent support. We are fortunate to have on the campus a dramatic group capable of presenting creditable original musical comedies. During its eight years of activity the organization has set a high standard for itself. The present productions should not be an exception.

An R. O. T. C. Unit Would Be Fine— If It Were Included As An Elective Course

Petitions asking student support toward the installation of an R. O. T. C. unit at George Washington University have been circulated about the campus during the week. The Hatchet does not condemn the solicitation of student opinion by petition, or the subsequent inclusion of such a unit in the curriculum at the University if opinion so demands. But we do go on record as absolutely opposing the institution of such a unit if it is made compulsory course at George Washington. Unless we are assured that such a proposed course will never remain elective, we shall consistently oppose its adoption.

The University Cooperative Bookstore Will Soon Be A Reality, We Hope

The Liberal Club is correct—George Washington University should have a cooperative book store. And we are happy to appraise the Club and its sympathizers that the University administration has some time ago made arrangements for such a store. It is expected that activities will begin at the commencement of the first semester, or as soon thereafter as is compatible with the University's program of expansion, when such an organization will be effected in conjunction with the University supply store, which has been doing business in the basement of Stockton Hall since the beginning of the school year.

There Should Be More George Washington Trophies Awarded High Schools

For the first time in the history of the University a trophy will be awarded to a championship high school athletic aggregation. The "George Washington University Alumni Basketball Trophy" will be presented to the champion high school quintet in the District. While this is a good beginning, let the good work not stop here.

We suggest a high school field day for the spring of the year, at which George Washington could entertain the leaders in high school athletics throughout the East. Delegates to the field day could be invited by members of the athletic board and could gather here to compete for awards. This annual event would stimulate athletic prowess among high schools and would acquaint such schools with George Washington. It would serve the two-fold purpose of being a decidedly beneficial gesture, and one which should bestow upon the University favorable and well-deserved publicity.

Honorable mention: Ann Dart in a nobby black velvet and Virginia Jones in a wine colored satin. Along comes Mr. Valdron who sees in our modest University a school for the idle rich—quite paradoxical when taken along with the unique Grecian objections. . . There's that girls' Phys-Ed instructor who schedules 30 minutes of supervised and compulsory relaxation (sleep, if you please) in her gym classes (at $8 per semester hour, too). . . Dan Beattie, author of the book, is also composer of the original music which will be an integral part of the plot of the show. The tunes will range from a low, minor blues song to a love waltz and catchy comedy numbers. The theme song, "Oh, Say! Can't You See?" is a melody which will undoubtedly linger in the mind.

Striking and unusual scenery and lighting effects have been prepared under the direction of Dean Longfellow. The scenery will be more elaborate than ever before, with five scenes and nine settings. Costumes for this year's production, designed by Ruth Warren, costume director, will surpass those of former shows. The choruses will have eight changes of costumes. A novelty program booklet has been designed and published by Grant Von Demark and will be sold at the show.

LETTERS to the Editor

Declares Military Training Has No Place in University

To the Editor:

There is being circulated on the George Washington University campus, with the sanction of the president of the University, a petition calling for the support of a projected R. O. T. C. unit. The movement is further aided by a prominent professor in the University who has allowed the petition to be presented in his class, and who himself expressed approval of the R. O. T. C. on the grounds:

1. That it is a valuable agent in national defense.
2. That it does not foster militarism.

He further stated that college students made the best officers in the last war. At the same time, this professor denied in his class any expression of opinion by members of the class who are opposed to the R. O. T. C. It is evident that military training has no place in an educational institution. It does not further education, but aids in this country's preparation for war. Such expressions of anti-war sentiment in the United States as the Kellogg Peace Pact are belied by all the militaristic propaganda that is being carried on now, a manifestation of which is the present attempt to install an R. O. T. C. in George Washington University. The proposed voluntary military training may easily lead, eventually, to compulsory training. In the face of the abandonment of compulsory training by such prominent universities as Cornell, and the consideration of such a step by others, I, as a student of George Washington would not like to see the school become a reactionary institution, but rather a leader in the trend toward student maturity in America.

We should not support the war that big business is preparing for, and will profit by. We should not turn our school into a place in which students will be trained to shoot down their fellow students in other countries. We must not have R. O. T. C. in the George Washington University.

JULES BRAUNSTEIN.

R. O. T. C. Would Be Benefit To University, He Claims

To the Editor:

About the R. O. T. C. business, I'm for it. That it is a good thing is shown by its popularity in a majority of the largest and foremost universities in the country. Although much publicity is usually given to occasional objections raised by individuals in some of the institutions, the units continue to exist, efficiently, and with much benefit.

It is very unlikely that an R. O. T. C. unit at George Washington could or would be made compulsory, but such training, offered as optional to the compulsory two years' physical education, would, I'm sure, be desirable and very beneficial. The George Washington University band, if enlisted as a division of such an organization, would be greatly in

Phi Theta Xi Gives Banquet for Alumni

Professional Engineering Fraternity Has Dinner at Lafayette Hotel

Phi Theta Xi, professional engineering fraternity, will give a dinner for its alumni and faculty members in the dining room of the Lafayette Hotel, Sixteenth and I streets N. Short talks will be given by faculty members, including the dean of the School of Engineering, and alumni and charter members.

Phi Theta Xi recently was host to many invited guests at a buffet smoker given in the inner lounge rooms of the Ambassador Hotel.

F. M. Hoffhins, president of the fraternity, presided at the function; he introduced Dean John R. Lapham of the School of Engineering; Nolan D. Mitchell, of the Bureau of Standards, speaking on the "Control of Airplane Hangar Fires by Automatic Water Control"; Harry Yinger, who read a paper on "Proposed Methods for the Detection of Intoxication," and Wentworth B. Clapham, a charter member of the fraternity.

The committee on arrangements were Harold Sangster, Ellsworth J. Hand, Ray Heimburger, and Harry Yinger. The chairman of the reception committee was Reuben Leatherwood.

Increased in efficiency, maneuverability, and drill technique.

This military training, far from being the alleged "part of the general concentration on militarism"—although it does offer its participants, through their service, unlimited opportunities in many departments—promotes smooth-working cooperation and instills unified spirit—two things that George Washington, successful in the beginning of its rise to a greater university, is striving to attain.

Buff and Blue Five Opposes Powerful Missouri Team Thursday; Duke Follows Saturday; Both Games Will Be Played at Tech

Missouri's Defense Expected To Trouble Colonials; Duke Has Fast Five

Bulletin

The Catawba College game scheduled for tonight has been cancelled.

Facing two teams that will give them more opposition than their first contest, the Colonials meet the University of Missouri's five Thursday and Duke's on Saturday. Both of these fine teams will play the locals in the spacious Tech gym.

Of the two teams, Missouri is expected to give the Colonials the most trouble. Last year Missouri tied Oklahoma for second place in the Big Six Conference and these two teams are expected to win this year. Its specialty is an air-tight defense that is extremely hard to penetrate.

Missouri's offense is deliberate and slow moving, the team preferring to work the ball cautiously up the court and carefully picking scoring opportunities. The spearhead of the attack is Johnny Cooper, a fast, sensational forward. Last year he tied Ted O'Leary, new G. W. Coach, for Big Six scoring honors with a total of 110 points. He is small, flashy, and shoots in an unorthodox, overhead style.

Two other fine men are in the Missouri line-up: Norman Wagner, 6 foot 3 center, and George Steuber, guard. Wagner is not a scoring star but is excellent on the defense and a fine all-around player. Steuber, quarterback on the football team, is a fast, effective guard.

Good Battle Promised

Summed up, the tilt is expected to be a real battle between the crack offensive of O'Leary's men and the fine defensive of Coach Edwards' quint.

In the Duke game the Colonials go up against a fast, clever five that last year won the Big Five title in North Carolina. It features a short, snappy passing attack similar to G. W. with a man-to-man defense.

Duke has a pair of brothers, Jimmy and Herby Thompson, that Zahn & Co. will have to watch. Jimmy is a fast, tricky center, who starred for Western High, while Herby is a dependable guard. Henry Lewis is their best forward and his partner will be Wendell Horn or Charles Hayes, while the other guard will be either Phil Weaver or Fred Lewis, brother of Henry. Thus there may be two pairs of brothers in the line-up.

On Monday the Colonials will return to their old hang-out, the H street gym, to meet Baltimore. Baltimore's wares have not been highly touted, but they promise a flashy, clever combine.

Cherry Tree Sport Staff

There will be a meeting of the Cherry Tree sports staff on Friday evening in the Cherry Tree office at 8 p. m.

Why Coads Go Crazy

It is a rule at Stanford University that coeds must pass a physical examination and be excellent in their studies in order to be allowed to stay out until 12 on week nights and 1:30 on Saturdays. And at Oberlin College the regulations allow coeds to smoke in their rooms only if they provide fire extinguishers.

Shenandoah Quint Is Downed, 54-28, In Lopsided Game

Five Buff and Blue Regulars, Two Substitutes Shine in Season Opener

Under the direction of Ted O'Leary, assistant varsity basketball coach, the Colonial quintet opened their season Thursday night with an easy victory over Shenandoah College, 54-28. The walls of the H street gym were bulging with an audience of 1,000 interested spectators, and that many more were turned away for lack of accommodations.

Ty Hertzler, 6 foot 5 inch center, was the man of the hour; from one end of the court to the other, under each basket he carried in his campaign. Led by this youthful giant, and with diminutive Forrest Burgess bringing up the van, the Buff and Blue courtmen showed all stages of basketball.

In the first second of play—Hertzler tapped off to Parrack who passed to Burgess, and the latter scored the opening ring. This lead set up in the first play of the game was never challenged, and although frequently the visitors outplayed the locals, they were never able to endanger the outcome.

Burgess Scores
"Wick" Parrack, high point scorer in the District last year, was not up to his usual standard. Several tosses either fell short or went wild far from the backboard, but he came through with 12 out of the amassed 54 points. Burgess, runner-up for District honors last year, got off to a good start garnering 15 points. Twelve of these came in the first half.

For a consistently fine game the award goes to Captain "Otis" Zahn. Dropping the leather for a total of nine points, and playing a defensive game that leaves nothing to be desired—Zahn bids fair to be the ace of Colonial floormen for another season.

Among the substitutes who made their debut before Washington fans in this game, recognition is due "Ox" Wickham, 230-pound center, and Jimmy Howell, speedy little forward. "Ox" on one occasion scored from a sitting position, and on another handled his bulk in such a way that a Shenandoah guard was unable to reach the basket.

Collison, Stanhagen, and Deputy shared the glories of the Virginians.

SPORT AXE

By ROBERT P. HERZOG

The schedule is out, and the games simply reek of big-time football—that trip to Tennessee by Dixie and Walsh proved profitable—but wait'll we play Tennessee out at the Ball Park, speaking of profitable.

Another of the "all" teams is out; this time by the coaches of all of the local universities... an all-District eleven. G. W. is represented by Slaird, Stewart, Blackstone, Mulvey, and Fenlon; the other positions were divided by C. U., G. U., and Md.

I predict that just as Slaird received recognition for his endeavors at the eleventh hour—so next year in his eleventh hour Finis Parrish will be the grapefruit in the eye of all local and many foreign sports writers.

I wonder if the popularity of the Colonial football team will carry over to the floor, and if vast throngs of Washington admirers (paid admissions) will fill the gymnasium.

In an interview with varsity coach, Ted O'Leary, an enterprising sports reporter got the following statement, "I am satisfied with the performance of the team in the first game. Shenandoah, however, was not a real test of our strength. If we wish to win against Missouri next week we'll have to do much better."

As an advance to the return of beer, the beer garden, etc., Phil Lampkin, a favorite of Washington theater-goers and maestro-in-general at the Fox, is cooperating with the athletic department in the formation of a German band which will play at all varsity basketball games. Eleven pieces selected from the University Band started practice for the ompa-ompa on Sunday.

"Ox" Wickham proved that he was "good varsity material" by scoring 22 points, and making it possible for S. P. E. to win the interfraternity championship. By the by—that S. P. E. team had four varsity prospects in their line-up: Sheriff, Howell, Tompkins, and Wickham.

Wayne Chambers, captain of the football team and member of the varsity basketball team, is assisting Len Walsh with the direction of the frosh courtmen.

In answer to the pleas of many students who have been turned away from the "tin tabernacle" for lack of accommodations on the nights of big games—the tremendous Tech gym has been contracted. This auditorium capable of seating 4,000 spectators will amply provide for the entire student body. I'll be seeing you, and the whistle toots at 8 sharp.

Sigma Phi Epsilon Basketball Quint Wins Interfraternity Championship; Wickham Scores 22 Points to Star

Final Period Scoring Power Overcomes Phi Sig's Defensive Play

By EVERETT WOODWARD

Amid the wild cheering of a near-capacity crowd, Sigma Phi Epsilon won the interfraternity basketball championship by defeating a determined Phi Sigma Kappa team, 41-32. Led by "Ox" Wickham, who amassed 22 points, the strong Sig Ep quint, after being held to five field goals in the first half by a splendid Phi Sig defense, came to life in the second half to commandeer a lead which they held to the end.

Howell gave S. P. E. the first score of the game with a basket from side court. Stehman then duplicated and enlarged this score with two pretty shots from under the basket, to give Phi Sig the lead, 4-2. Howell's second basket and two by Olverson, brought the score at the quarter to 8-4, with Phi Sig leading. The zone defense employed by the Phi Sig team at this point was superb. Repeated attempts to break through were frustrated and frequently resulted in gaining the ball from the opposition.

With play continuing close, S. P. E. made a comeback in the second quarter, scoring on baskets by Howell, Tompkins, Wickham, and a foul by Sompayrac, to enjoy a 1-point margin at the half. At this time there was little to choose between the two teams. The feature so far had been in the holding of Wickham to one field goal.

Wickham Hits Stride
The third quarter saw Sig Ep and Wickham in full stride. Making six baskets in rapid succession, and aided by Howell's two, Wickham cut loose with a vengeance to enable his team to lead at the quarter, 27-20. Baskets by Monroe and Olverson kept Phi Sig within striking distance.

The start of the fourth quarter saw a determined Phi Sig assault counter-act Wickham's spree long enough to pull up to a 33-32 count. Baskets were shared by the entire team and featured by Stehman's one-hand shot from the sideline. The Phi Sig bolt had been shot, however, and with Wickham continuing his basket assault, the Sig Ep courtmen pulled ahead to win by a 9-point margin.

Varsity Swimmers Open Season With Hopkins in January

George Washington's varsity swimmers open their long tank schedule when they swim against Johns Hopkins, in Baltimore, on January 7. The Buff and Blue mermen versus the Rider College natators, the following week, offers the first "splash" engagement in our home pool.

The remaining opponents are: January 20, Delaware University, at Ambassador pool; January 28, University of Virginia, at Charlottesville; February 17, William and Mary (tentative); Duke University (tentative); and Washington and Lee (tentative).

Both Johns Hopkins and the University of Virginia brought defeat to the Buff and Blue natators last season while William and Mary were not so successful. Neither Delaware University nor Rider College swam against G. W. last year.

Frosh List Schedule
The George Washington freshmen swim team have four definitely arranged matches with five more meets pending. The meet on January 14 with Baltimore Friends School is the only definitely arranged contest at home. Others are: December 17, Baltimore Friends, at Baltimore, January 6; Baltimore City College, at Baltimore; January 14, Baltimore Friends, at Ambassador Hotel.

Contests pending are: Baltimore Polytechnic Institute; Central High School (return match); Baltimore Y. M. H. A.; Washington Y. M. C. A.; Duke University freshmen.

Students Plan German Band To Play at Home Functions

A German band to be composed of members of the George Washington University Band, will perform at home basketball games and other functions of the University this winter, if present plans of student musicians are perfected. Its first appearance will be Thursday night at the G. W.-U. of Missouri game in the gymnasium at Tech High School.

Mr. Phil Lampkin, conductor of the Fox Theatre orchestra, has volunteered his services to assist in the organization and training of the band, which held its first rehearsal Sunday morning.

Frosh Basketeers Meet High Schools In Series Openers

Activities for freshman basketball get under way in earnest tomorrow evening when they meet Western High School in the H street gym at 7 o'clock. Roosevelt High will be met Friday in the home gym. Tomorrow's game will show the progress made by the team, which has been practicing under the tutelage of Len Walsh, assistant director of athletics.

Several of the men out for the frosh team gained all-high recognition last year, and with these men as the nucleus the team has been built up with coordination as a major feature. Those men who have had former experience include: Clark Griffith, jr., who was captain of the team at Staunton Military Academy; Barney Kane from Eastern High's interhigh championship team, and Ed Alfaro, one of the mainstays of his team in the interfraternity series.

After College WHAT?

Harry D. Watts, V. P. of James Stewart & Co., Inc., builders of famous buildings throughout the world, says: "World progress depends upon engineering. No wonder eager college men look toward this profession. But to succeed you must have a technical background, ability to take the knocks, and alertness to take advantage of the breaks."

"ABILITY to take the knocks." Yet brains count above. That's why in engineering, as in life, a pipe is the favorite smoke pipeful of good old Edgeworth Smoking Tobacco clears the brain for those intensive problems that confront the engineer... or the college man.

Of course most college men know Edgeworth. They like its distinctive flavor that comes only from this blend of fine old burleys. Perhaps you'd like to try before you buy. Then just write to Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va., and you'll get a free sample packet of Edgeworth.

Dieffenbach Found In Gotham Hospital After Auto Wreck

Freshman Suffers Slight Brain Concussion in New York City Accident

Karl Dieffenbach, president of the freshmen class, who was located in a New York City hospital after being missing since the afternoon of December 16, was brought home, 3527 Porter street Northwest, Saturday, by his father, Rudolph Dieffenbach.

He was located after being taken to the hospital with a slight concussion of the brain suffered in an automobile accident. Rudolph Dieffenbach, father of the young man, stated last night that he was recovering rapidly.

It is not believed that he will be able to return to school this semester at least and whether or not he will return at all is not known. No action has as yet been taken by the freshmen class to elect a new president, but there has not been any need for an active president since Dieffenbach's disappearance.

Little is known concerning Karl's activities since he quietly left home on November 16 and failed to return. Mr. Rudolph Dieffenbach stated that he believed Karl had spent most of his time in the vicinity of New York City and that it was probable that he was attempting to obtain passage on a trans-Atlantic liner. He added that the idea that Karl had gone South on a private expedition to study botanical flora was unfounded and ridiculous.

Investigation by police and cooperation by Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the University, failed for nearly four weeks until he was located in New York. The only clues detectives had were the facts that his valuable stamp collection was sold a few days before for $30 and that he had a great desire to go to Europe.
